16	A George I Strawberry Dish, the centre with a monogram enclosed within a foliage cartouche, the border divided into thirteen radiating lobes, on short moulded foot, by Thomas Folkingham, London, circa, 1715-20 , 6½in. diam.	11	6
17	A Charles II Porringer pricked with initials and date 1682, the body embossed with scrolling daffodil, aster, peony, daisy, and the two handles of scroll design, maker's mark probably R.C., twice repeated, no hall marks, but probably of Lincoln or York provenance .	5	16
18	A George II Dredger, of plain cylindrical form with a crest and monogram, moulded base with moulded domed cover and scroll handle, London, 1729 .	2	4
19	A VERY RARE QUEEN ANNE OCTAGONAL DREDGER, of charming design, with plain facets arising from a moulded five-step base, another band of moulding at the edge of the cover which is cone-shaped on the upper part, the handle of plain scroll design, by Glover Johnson, London, 1713 , 3½in. high	2	9
	Dredgers of this type usually date from the reign of George I; a specimen from Queen Anne's reign is exceedingly uncommon.

[See ILLUSTRATION]

20	A PAIR OF REMARKABLE WILLIAM III TWO-PRONG FORKS, in fine condition, with massive flat stems and shouldered prongs, the heads of trifid design engraved on the backs with contemporary crests of negroes heads, maker's mark W.I. in a heart-shaped shield, London, 1697	(2)	3	1
----	---	-----	---	---

** The crest is that of Moore. Two forks of similar type, also with negro head crests, with the London hall marks for 1694, are exhibited at the Victoria and Albert Museum.

Forks were not in general use until well into the 18th Century. In the Stuart times they were regarded more as curiosities, and in Ben Jonson's Comedy "The Devil is an Ass" (1606) their use was ridiculed. Pepys, however in his Diary for Dec. 14th, 1664, notes, "God having given me some profit extraordinary of late, and bespoke also some plate, spoons and forks." The earliest surviving hall-marked silver fork was made in 1632 and is in the Victoria and Albert Museum. Forks of any kind dating from the 17th Century are rare; the examples now offered for sale are particularly fine ones.

The Property of a Scottish Country Gentleman

- 21 A CHARLES II SMALL PORRINGER of plain design and pyreform type, engraved with a contemporary coat-of-arms, at present unidentified, within typical foliage mantling, the handle of plain re-curving scroll design; on the base the following inscription “Ex dono Katharinae Wilde, Aviae, K.T. (K.T. the gift of his grandmother, Katharine Wilde), maker's mark T.H. between an anchor, London, 1669 . . . . .

** There is a Communion Cup by this maker at S. Pauls, Shadwell, Middlesex.

[See ILLUSTRATION]

- 22 A VERY RARE CHARLES II CASTOR, of plain cylindrical form, the short body engraved with a contemporary coat-of-arms within a typical foliage moulding resting on moulded base with a ropework band; the cover, fixed to the body with a bayonet joint, also of plain design, on the top a cinquefoil type of ornament in cut-card work, pierced with charming patterns, maker's mark W.C. crowned, London, 1672 . . . . .

** One of the earliest castors known to exist. It is similar in form to the first example illustrated in Jackson's “History of English Plate” (vol. 2, fig. 1079), but has the peculiarity of being pierced on the top of the cover and not at the sides as is usual with most sugar castors.

The arms are believed to be those of William Crichton, 2nd Earl of Dumfries.

** The teapot is engraved with the Vernon crest.

- 125 A George II Coffee Pot of rococo design, chased with bouquets within scrolling panels, the spout of volute form, wood handle, by Ayme Videau, London, 1741, 9in. high—wt. (all in) 28 ozs. 15 dwts.

** The crest is that of Vernon.

- 126 A HOT WATER JUG, on lampstand, of classical ewer-shape and plain design, except for gadroon borders, the cover hinged to the wooden handle and the stand with three rings and paw feet, London, 1804—wt. (all in) 50 ozs. 15 dwts.

** The arms are those of Vernon.

The following three lots bear the arms of Admiral Edward Vernon, the Victor of Portobello, impaling those of his wife Sarah, daughter of Thomas Best.

- 127 A GEORGE II SOUP TUREEN AND COVER, oval, with gadroon borders, the handles and feet of rococo design and fine quality, the cover surmounted by a pomegranate, by George Wickes, London, 1753—wt. 117 ozs. 2

** George Wickes was the founder of the famous firm of Garrard; his name was first entered at Goldsmiths' Hall on February 3, 1721.

- 128 A GEORGE II TEA KETTLE of rococo design, the body chased in relief with scrolls, shells and flowers, on matted and scaled grounds, the cover surmounted by a pineapple and the spout with a satyr mask, on tripod lamp stand with pendant festoons of grapes terminating in shell feet, by George Wickes, London, 1742—wt. (all in) 69 ozs. 10 dwts.

- 129 A GEORGE II SMALL COFFEE POT of choice design, the body of cone shape and plain except for armorial bearings, the spout with faceted sides, wood handle and moulded cover, by George Wickes, London, 1734, 7in. high—wt. (all in) 17 ozs.

- 130 A pair of Snuffers Trays, of oval shape with turnover ends and reeded borders, London, 1803; a pair of engraved Snuffers, 1791; and a small plain Salver, with shell and scroll border, 1763,  $6\frac{1}{2}$  in. diam.—wt. (all in) 23 ozs. 4
- 131 AN URN, for the most part of plain design, the oviform body with two drop handles fixed at the sides and cone-shaped cover, the spout is plated, on collet stem with square base and wood plinth, by Ebenezer Coker, London, 1766, 20 in. high
- ** The arms are those of Francis Vernon, Lord Orwell, afterwards Earl of Shipbrook (nephew of Admiral Edward Vernon) impaling those of his wife Alice Ibbetson.
- 132 A LARGE SILVER-GILT TANKARD, apparently of Chinese workmanship, chased all over with designs of buildings and figures at different occupations on a background of formal foliage, emblems, etc., the cover surmounted by two boys wrestling—wt. 133 ozs.
- ** The arms, engraved inside the cover, are those of Capper.
- 133 A VERY FINE SET OF SIX CANDLESTICKS, of exceptional quality, the vase-shaped columns in relief with bay leaves, formal honeysuckle and other classical foliage, surmounted by urn-shaped nozzles chased with straw work on circular bases, with foliage borders, by Paul Storr, London, 1807,  $13\frac{1}{2}$  in. high; and two plated Branches for three light candelabra of similar fine quality—wt. of silver 221 ozs. 8
- ** The arms, motto and crest, which are chased in relief on each candlestick, are those of Vernon.
- 134 AN EXTREMELY FINE SET OF TWO TEA CADDIES AND A SUGAR BOWL, in original case, the former of architectural design, oblong, with moulded covers and bases, engraved round the upper borders with narrow bands of typical rococo design and with temporary coats-of-arms in circular panels, by Paul Crespin (Britannia Standard), London, 1724; the sugar bowl is octagonal with a slightly domed cover and faceted baluster knob; it is similarly engraved, by John Chapman, London, 1733 4
- ** The arms are those of Vernon. These three pieces are of particularly fine quality; it will be noticed that the caddies have locks, tea at that period being a particularly scarce and highly-prized commodity, costing as much as £1 per lb.
